JAPAN v SPAIN

WOMEN'S RUGBY WORLD CUP 2025

OPTA FACTS

- Japan and Spain have met five times before with Spain winning the first two clashes but Japan winning the most recent three, two of which came in July this year.
- Spain's two wins over Japan both came in Rugby World Cup fixtures, a 30-0 win in Wales in 1991 and a 62-0 victory in Barcelona in 2002.
- Spain have a 100% win rate at the Rugby World Cup against Asian nations, beating Japan in 1991 and 2002, Kazakhstan in 2006 and 2014 and Hong Kong China in 2017.
- Japan have lost 13 of their 14 pool stage matches at the Rugby World Cup (W1), however their solitary victory during that run came against European opposition, defeating Sweden 10-5 in 1994.
- Spain have scored three tries from possessions that began with a tap penalty in this year's Rugby World Cup, no team has scored more in that fashion (level with France), with that tally accounting for 50% of their total tries, also a tournament-high.
- Japan and Spain are two of just six teams to have maintained a 100% scrum success rate on their own feed at this year's Rugby World Cup, although they are also two of five teams yet to win a scrum on the opposition feed.
- Spain (6) and Japan (4) have retained more restart kicks from the halfway line than any other teams at this year's Rugby World Cup, with Spain's 35% retention rate from those kicks also being a tournament high.
- Japan have gained 44 metres from their 14 mauls at this year's Rugby World Cup, only Australia (48m) have made more ground from their maul.
- Spain's Claudia Pena has made 27 carries at the Rugby World Cup this year, more than any other back; she has made the most metres-in-contact (26) and beaten the joint most defenders of any Spanish player this year (5, level with Anne Fernandez de Corres).
- Japan's Masami Kawamura is one of just five players to have made 10+ lineout takes (including steals) at Rugby World Cup 2025, while she was responsible for Japan's only lineout steal this year.
